INTERNATIONAL PRELIMINARY REPORT ON PATENTABILITY

International application No. PCT/US05/05996

Box No. V	Reasoned statement under Arti applicability; citations and expl	icle 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial lanations supporting such statement	al
1. Statemen	nt Novelty (N)	Claims NONE Claims 1-27	YES NO
	Inventive Step (IS)	Claims NONE Claims 1-27	YES NO
	Industrial Applicability (IA)	Claims 1-27 Claims NONE	YES ŃO
	Industrial Applicability (IA)

2. Citations and Explanations (Rule 70.7)
Claims 1-14 and 20-27 lack novelty under PCT Article 33(2) as being anticipated by Kihara et al (Cancer Research 61: 6474 (2001)).
Kihara et al teaches analysis of gene expression profiles (e.g., Figure 2, page 6476) for various anti-cancer drugs in 20 patients (Abstract). Kihara et al also teaches the classification of esophageal tumor cells based on gene expression data, determination of therapy, and prediction of patient outcome (e.g., the entire Discussion section on pages 6477-6478). Thus, the claimed methods embrace the methods of Kihara et al.

Claims 1-12, 15-19, and 23-25 lack novelty under PCT Article 33(2) as being anticipated by Scherf et al (Nature Genetics 24: 236 (2000)). Scherf et al teaches analysis of gene expression profiles by using a protein expression database (e.g., the paragraph bridging the columns on page 236) in connectin with cancer cells' response to anti-cancer drugs (e.g., Abstract, Figure 1, Figure 2, and Table 1). Thus, the claimed methods embrace the methods of Scherf et al.

Claims 1-27 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(4), and thus have industrial applicability because the subject matter claimed can be made or used in industry.
